Welcome in Vézère Valley,
Prehistoric pearl of Périgord

The Vézère Valley is located in South-West France, inside the department of Dordogne, two hours from Bordeaux, Limoges and Toulouse. It is already near the beautiful city of Sarlat (20 km).

On fifty kilometers, the Vézère Valley is one of the touristic jewels of Black Périgord.

The Vézère Valley is well-known for his numerous prehistoric sightseeing’s (older than 400 000 years!), whose 15 are classified in UNESCO.

It’s in the city of Montignac-Lascaux where happened one of the biggest prehistoric discovering of all the time : the cave of Lascaux, in 1940. The Lascaux cave has been opened to the public during many years until its closure in 1963. The important number of visitors (1500 per day) and the carbon dioxide due to the human breathing began to destroy the prehistoric paintings. Today, the original cave is closed and monitored in order to protect this classified site.

Not far, the city of Les Eyzies-de-Tayac-Sireuil is the world capital of prehistory. That’s here Peyrony, Lartet, Capitan, the abbess Breuil and Glory studied ; here has been discovered the Cro-Magnon’s Man ; here that we can visit the National Museum of Prehistory... Finally, it’s here where stand up the famous statue of the prehistoric man of Paul Dardé, symbol of prehistory in Périgord.
